Josue David Cisneros, PhD
Northeastern University

Citizenship Beyond Borders?
The Immigrant Rights Movement on Where We’re From and Where We’re Going

Thursday, October 11, 2012
5:30PM-6:30PM
Annenberg Forum, Carswell Hall

Followed by a Reception

Dr. Josue David Cisneros is Assistant Professor in the Department of Communication Studies at Northeastern University. His research and teaching explore rhetoric and social identity in U.S. public culture, especially with regard to race, immigration, and citizenship. His research has appeared in venues such as Quarterly Journal of Speech, Argumentation and Advocacy, and Rhetoric and Public Affairs and has received awards from the National Communication Association’s Public Address Division and the American Forensics Association. His book “The Border Crossed Us”: Vernacular Rhetorics ofBorders, Citizenship, and Latin Identity is under contract with the University of Alabama Press.