WELCOME BACK!

We are so glad you are here. This will be a weekend to gather with old friends, share ideas, and learn from one another in a positive and nurturing environment. It is an opportunity for each of you to reflect on your teaching experience while rekindling connections with fellow graduates. We would also like to provide you with an occasion to recharge from the rigors and demands placed upon beginning teachers while reconnecting with the values espoused by the Department of Education at Wake Forest University. Finally, we would like to offer assistance as you set professional leadership goals for school, district, state, and national events. Again, we are delighted that you have come to our Annual Emerging Teacher Leaders Conference.
