¡Explorando España!

Cruisin' through French Polynesia

Join us on an imaginary cruise through the South Pacific as we tour the overseas country of French Polynesia. Comprising over one hundred islands and nearly a million square miles, French Polynesia is a diverse and exciting land characterized by exotic plants and animals, friendly people, and unique cultural traditions. During our journey, we will "cruise" through French Polynesia's five major island groups, encountering coral reefs, mountains, and volcanoes, sampling authentic foods such as coconut stew and sweet banana pudding, and learning about the special importance of environmental protection on the islands. Campers will also experience a tropical monsoon, perform a traditional Polynesian dance, and learn how to play a nose flute! Don't miss our breathtaking maritime voyage through the vast and fascinating islands of French Polynesia.

French Specialist

Robbie Richwine has taught all levels of French ranging from pre-K to AP and now teaches French 1 through 5 at Reagan High School. He also serves on the Executive Board of the Foreign Language Association of North Carolina. "Monsieur Richevin" holds a BA in French and Psychology from UNC Chapel Hill and an MAEd in French Education from Wake Forest University.

¡Explorando España!

Join us in our journey to explore some of the many regions of Spain this summer. Our "trip" will begin in Spain's capital city of Madrid. There we will eat churros and chocolate and "meet" Spain's king and queen as well as the president. From Madrid we will fly to La Mancha where we will encounter the fictional characters, Don Quijote, Sancho Panza and Dulcinea. We will then travel to Granada where we will see the traditional Flamenco Dance. In Valencia we will experience the amazingly messy Tomatina, Spain's annual tomato-throwing festival which draws thousands of tourists each year. Next, we will be making our way to Barcelona where we will see Pablo Picasso's artwork and make some new works of art of our own. This country is rich in culture, food, and art. There is truly something for everyone in Spain. There will be lots of delicious foods, authentic crafts, and hands-on activities and games. ¡Ven con nosotros a explorar!

Spanish Specialist

Amy Talley is a lover of languages and has taught Spanish for over 10 years. Ms. Talley is currently teaching ESL at Jefferson Elementary School. In 2010, Señora Talley earned National Board Certification and received the Marcellus Waddill Award for Excellence in Teaching. She holds a BA in Spanish from Appalachian State University and an MAEd in Spanish Education from Wake Forest University.
