THE BOBS, A CAPPELLA COMEDY
Secrest Artists Series
Manhattan Transfer meets Monty Python...Robin Williams meets Bobby McFerrin...that’s The Bobs. This original “band without instruments” has been skewering the classics and breaking all the rules in the world of vocal music for over 30 years, playing everywhere from Lincoln Center to Berlin’s Passionkirche. This is your last chance to hear these remarkable – and remarkably funny – experts of a cappella music, as they perform for the Secrest Artists Series on their farewell tour.

SAMUEL ADLER GUEST LECTURE: Building Bridges with Music
Samuel Adler, the eminent composer of over 400 published compositions, teacher, conductor and author, will speak at WFU, in celebration of his 90th birthday. The title of Dr. Adler’s lecture will be that of his newly released autobiography, Building Bridges with Music.

25 Wednesday, 7:30pm
FALL CHORAL CONCERT
Brian Gorelick, conductor
The Fall Choral Concert will be a combined appearance by the Wake Forest Concert Choir and the Collegium Musicum Vocal Ensemble in a program titled Prophetic Voices. The choral compositions selected for the program will be settings of visionary texts from the Biblical prophets and inspirational words written by important literary figures. Featured will be selected movements from Twentieth Century American composer Randall Thompson’s The Peaceable Kingdom.

27 Friday, 3:30pm
REPERTORY HOUR
Tuesday, Midnight
23rd Annual Halloween Orchestra Concert
David Hagy, conductor
New freshmen and returning upperclassmen will find new forays into flights of fearful and fateful fancy that will haunt the entire Halloween audience. Faculty will plan a plot the students know nothing about while students prepare tricks the faculty know nothing about, all while performing haunting, comedic, and triumphant music. It will involve an absurd juxtaposition of characters and in all likelihood, the conductor will get killed. Come see the spectacle!
Admission is FREE, but tickets are required. Call x5026 for details.
